

I'm a very distressed radio listener--this is in regards to the proposed switch in priority from current FM transmitters to LPFM. This would be a very unsatisfactory switch in my city, because of the service provided by several broadcasters, which I listen to on a regular basis. One in particular is Air1 (88.9, Louisville).

Air 1 is unique in several ways, first it is the only station that targets my age group with positive music. The station's music selection is void of vulgar references, sexual innuendo, and drug-related references which is so common on all other rock stations for teens and twenty-somethings. This is a service that is unique and would the community would suffer loss without this station, because there is no other station that resembles it. All too often do we let music and programming be played over the airwaves that is a bad influence. The FCC should know from recent sociological studies how the media is a role model for young people in our society, please do not let LPFM take a higher priority than this radio station, Air 1, which counters so much of profit-driven media that provide music and entertainment that is demeaning to women, promotes violence, and hate. Air 1 does the opposite promoting peace, understanding, and a positive influence on youth, I urge you, as our public servants to do something good for our community.
